

Rest & Recuperation at Fiji

The Soldiers Of Company K Would Be Sent To The Fiji Islands For Some Badly Needed R & R.

Field Church Service While At Fiji.

Jack Agnew & Bud Boisen
Photo Was Taken On Fiji.

Pete Mulvaney
Even Cooks Need Some R&R On Fiji.

John Gunderson
Walking Down A Path On Fiji.

Frying Pan,

Was Dropped After WWII.

Soldiers From Company K While On R&r At Fiji In 1943.

Back Row: John Gray, Bill Sullivan, Tim
Sullivan,
"the Bootlegger", Bill George, Folky Johnson
& Jack Agnew Middle Row: Edward
Feininger
Front Row: Ted Zagurski, Harry Dolyiniuk,
Jay Stow, Unkown & Bud Boisen

Ralph Ashbacher, Allen Westmark & Ray Summers
Enjoying Their R&r At Fiji.

Cpl John Gray
On His R&R Break At Fiji In 1943.

Cpl John Gray
Visiting An Ice Cream Factory
At Fiji In March Of 1943.

Some Soldiers From Co. K Outside The PX

On Fiji In 1943.
John Gray Is Third From The Left In The Backrow.

Allen E. Westmark
Taken July Of 1943.

Ralph Gaugler
Watching Some Of The Natives Of Fiji As
They Work In Their Fields.

Sgt Herb Mack

Although The Photograph Is Fuzzy, You Can See Herb Cuddling Someone's Pet Cat While Visiting

Fiji.

Back to the war

R & R on Fiji couldn't last forever. The war was still raging and in December of 1943, Company K would find itself shipping out to take part in the Bouganville campaign. Bouganville was another island in the Solomon Island chain NW of Guadalcanal. As part of what would become known as the "Island hopping" strategy the allies employed in the South Pacific.